1 (Proceedings commenced at 9:02 a.m.)

2 (See previously filed Jury Instruction Conference
3 Excerpt, Document #172.)

4 (The following proceedings were held outside the hearing
5 and presence of the Jury.)

6 THE COURT: All right. One other -- one final thing 7 for closing arguments we didn't talk about last night is if 8 you have an objection during closing arguments, I will ask the 9 lawyers to make it brief so I can rule on it and not -- keep 10 the jury focused on the closing argument versus your 11 objections, and if you want to make a further record on that, 12 we can do that after the Jury is deliberating. Neither side 13 objected much in this case, so I don't expect that, but it's 14 something I always tell lawyers.

15 Anything else?

16 MR. TILLOTSON: Yes. Timing. So the Court will read
17 it. Then they'll go for 25 minutes, and then I'm going to do 18 my --

19 THE COURT: 35.

20 MR. TILLOTSON: -- 35. There will be a one- or 21 two-minute changeover for technology.

22 THE COURT: Yes.

23 MR. TILLOTSON: If the Court will just allow the Jury
24 to stretch or stand up. And they're not able to take a break, 25 are they?

1 THE COURT: No.

2 MR. TILLOTSON: Just so they can get up and stand.

3 THE COURT: Yeah. While you're changing the 4 equipment, I'll ask them to stand up if they wish to stretch.
5 That's a good idea.

6 MR. TILLOTSON: Got it. Thank you, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: All right. You all want to take whatever 8 restroom break you might need or whatever and water. Make 9 sure you're all set to go. Get your stuff hooked up for 10 closing, and so that we can go right -- when they come back 11 in, Carol, call for me, and we'll do it.

12 MR. TILLOTSON: Five minutes or so?

13 THE COURT: Yes.

14 (Court recessed from 9:26 a.m. until 9:37 a.m.)

15 (The following proceedings were held within the hearing
16 and presence of the Jury.)

17 THE COURT: Good morning, ladies and gentlemen, and 18 thank you for being patient with us, and you'll find as I read 19 these that they are -- they've taken some time.

20 The -- a couple things. Before I start reading the 21 instructions to you, there's a couple of stipulations that the 22 parties entered into at the beginning of this case that I've 23 waited until now to read to you.

24 Number one, you'll remember the stipulation that I
25 read to you earlier on about the notice of the trustee sale

1 that was published in the St. Louis Countian -- it's called 2 The Countian now -- from February 4 to February 20th of 2014.
3 In fact, I think I read that actual notice to you. That is a 4 stipulation.

5 There's four other things I need to read to you.

6 "Jeannie May entered into her home" -- the parties
7 stipulate to this. That means they agree on this. "Jeannie 8 May entered into her home loan for personal, family, or 9 household purposes within the meaning of the Fair Debt 10 Collection Practices Act," and there's a statute cited number, 11 which I won't bore you with.

12 The next is:

13 "May defaulted on her loan in 2007."

14 The next is:

15 "May's loan is a debt for the purpose of the Fair 16 Debt Collection Practices Act."

17 And, finally, the last stipulation is:

18 "Nationstar states in its response to trustee notice 19 of rights to cure filed with the bankruptcy court that May had 20 paid the amount required to cure the pre-petition default 21 through the Chapter 13 plan in her bankruptcy case and May had 22 also paid all post-bankruptcy petition amounts due Defendant 23 Nationstar as of the date the trustee's -- of the date of the 24 trustee's cure notice."

25 I'm going to read the instructions to you, but before

1 I do, there are actually five separate claims the Plaintiffs 2 are making against the Defendant. One is an invasion of 3 privacy claim. The next is a Fair Debt Collection Practices
4 Act claim. The next is a Real Estate Settlement Practices
5 Act. Those both -- the last two are both statutes, and this 6 other statute is the Fair Credit Reporting Act, and that will 7 be submitted to you in two forms. One is willful conduct, 8 alleged willful conduct by the Defendant, and the other is 9 negligent -- alleged negligent conduct by the Defendant. So 10 that's -- I tell you that in advance so you can kind of follow 11 me as I go through this.

12 I've already read to you Instruction No. 1, and,
13 again, you'll get these instructions to take back with you.
14 And I read you an instruction about note taking, which I won't 15 give you or repeat. That's -- you certainly have had a chance 16 to do that.

17 So Instruction No. 2: At the end of the trial, you 18 must make your decision based upon what you recall of the 19 evidence. You will not have a -- this is actually the one I 20 read to you. I'm sorry. This is the notes.

21 No. 3 is the newest, first one I'm reading to you.
22 No. 3 says: As you remember, the Court gave you a general 23 instruction before the presentation of any evidence in this 24 case. The Court will not repeat those instructions at this 25 time; however, those instructions and the additional

1 instructions to be given to you now constitute the law of this 2 case, and each such instruction is equally binding upon you.
3 You should consider each instruction in light of and in 4 harmony with the other instructions, and you should apply the 5 instructions as a whole to the evidence. The order in which 6 the instructions are given is no indication of the relative 7 importance. All of the instructions are in writing and will 8 be available to you in the jury room.

9           Instruction 4: In returning your verdict -- verdicts
10 in this case -- you will form beliefs as to facts. The Court 11 does not mean to assume as true any fact referred to in these 12 instructions but leaves it to you to determine what the facts 13 are.

14           Instruction 5: In these instructions, you are told 15 that your verdict depends on whether you find certain facts
16 have been proved. The burden of having a fact -- the burden 17 of proving a fact is upon the party whose claim or defense 18 depends upon that fact. The party who has the burden of 19 proving a fact must prove it by the greater weight of the 20 evidence. To prove something by the greater weight of the 21 evidence is to prove that it is more likely true than not 22 true. It is determined by considering all of the evidence and 23 deciding which evidence is more believable. If you -- on any 24 issue in this case -- if on any issue in this case the 25 evidence is equally balanced, then you cannot find that issue

1 has been proved. The greater weight of the evidence is not 2 necessarily determined by the greater number of witnesses or 3 exhibits a party has presented. You may have heard the term
4 "proof beyond a reasonable doubt." That is a stricter
5 standard which applies in criminal cases. It does not apply 6 in civil cases such as this, so you should, therefore, put it 7 out of your mind.

8 I should tell you there's a total of 30 instructions, 9 so you know what's go coming.

10 Instruction 6: You should consider and decide this 11 case as a dispute between persons of equal standing in the 12 community, of equal worth and holding the same or similar 13 situations or stations, I should say, in life. A corporation 14 and an individual are entitled to the same fair trial.

15 Instruction 7: May and Nationstar have stipulated -- 16 that is, they have agreed -- that certain facts are as 17 counsel -- are as counsel have just stated. You should, 18 therefore, treat those facts as having been proved.

19 Instruction 8: Agency. A corporation acts only 20 through its agents or employees, and any agent or employee of 21 a corporation may bind the corporation by acts and statements 22 made while acting in the scope of the authority delegated to 23 that agent by the corporation or within the scope of his or 24 his duties as an employee of that corporation.

25 Instruction 9: Invasion of privacy. May's first claim is that Nationstar invaded her privacy. Your verdict for invasion of privacy must be for May if May has established: (1) that Nationstar intentionally intruded, physically or otherwise, on May's solitude or seclusion or her private affairs and (2) that such intrusion would be highly offensive to a reasonable person and (3) Nationstar's intrusion directly caused or directly contributed to cause damage to May.

Invasion of privacy damages. Instruction 10: If you find in favor of May on invasion of privacy, then you may award an amount of money which will compensate May for damages she may have sustained and is reasonably certain to sustain in the future as a direct result of Nationstar's conduct. Damages for invasion of privacy may include loss of time and inconvenience, harm to credit, out-of-pocket costs and other monetary losses, and damages for emotional distress, mental anguish and suffering.

11: Invasion of privacy punitive damages. If you find for May on invasion of privacy, then you must consider whether to impose punitive damages. Your decision to award punitive damages must be based on clear and convincing evidence. By that, I mean evidence that you find to be highly probable and free from serious doubt. If you believe Nationstar's conduct as submitted in the invasion of privacy was outrageous because of Nationstar's reckless indifference

1 to May's rights or evil motive, then in addition to any 2 damages to which you find May entitled to under the invasion
3 of privacy, you may award May an additional amount as punitive 4 damages in such sum as you believe will serve to punish 5 Nationstar and deter Nationstar and others from like conduct.
6 You may consider harm to others in determining whether 7 Nationstar's conduct was outrageous or showed reckless 8 indifference to the rights of others; however, in determining 9 the amount of punitive damages award, you must not include 10 damage or harm to others who are not parties to this case. In 11 answering this question -- in answering this question, 12 consider only the conduct applicable to the invasion of 13 privacy count and no other. Do not award punitive damages for 14 the same conduct more than once.

15 Then there's a verdict form that you'll have to fill 16 out. I'm not going to read it to you. That's behind the 17 invasion of privacy claim.

18 Next, Instruction 12: Violation of the Fair Debt
19 Collection Practices Act. May claims that Nationstar violated
20 the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, which forbids debt 21 collectors from using unfair or deceptive means to collect a 22 debt. Your verdict must -- I'm sorry. Your verdict for the 23 violation of the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act must be 24 for May if May established: (1) that Nationstar is a debt 25 collector, that is, it regularly engages in collecting debts

owed to or due to others and May's loan was in default at the time it was transferred from CitiMortgage to Nationstar and (2) in connection with attempting to collect on May's home loan debt (a) Nationstar made any false representation regarding the character, amount, or legal status of the home loan or (2) Nationstar used any false, deceptive, or misleading representation or means in connection with the collection or attempt to collect the home loan or (c) represent or implied that nonpayment of any debt will result in the sale of any property unless such action is lawful, including representation or implications that not paying an amount it demanded would result in foreclosure despite not having a right to foreclose because the account was current at the time of such representation or implication or (d) threatened to take any action that cannot legally be taken. A threat not need be expressed; it may be implied; or (e) use unfair or unconscionable means to collect or attempt to collect any debt, including but not limited to collecting upon any amount, including any interest fee or charge, unless the amount is expressly authorized by the agreement permitted by law, and that May suffered damages as a result of the violation.

Instruction 13: This deals with strict liability. A single violation of the act is sufficient to subject Nationstar to liability for violation of the Fair Debt

1 Collection Practices Act.

2 Instruction 14: Nationstar may not be held liable
3 for violation of the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act if 4 Nationstar shows by the preponderance of the evidence that the 5 violation was not intentional and resulted from a bona fide 6 error notwithstanding the maintenance procedures reasonably 7 adopted to avoid any such error.

8 15: In evaluating whether Nationstar is liable for 9 violation of the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, you 10 should use an objective standard based upon the understanding 11 of an unsophisticated consumer. That is you should view 12 Nationstar's conduct through the eyes of a consumer who is, 13 naïve, uninformed, or below average sophistication or 14 intelligence.

15 16: Damages. And this is -- we're still on the Fair 16 Debt Collection Practices Act. If you find in favor of May 17 for violating -- for a violation of the Fair Debt Collection 18 Practices Act, then you may award an amount of money which 19 will compensate May for any damages she sustained as a direct 20 result of Nationstar's conduct in violation of the Fair Debt 21 Collection Practices Act. Actual damages for a violation of 22 the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act may include loss of 23 time and inconvenience, harm to credit, out-of-pocket costs 24 and other monetary losses, and damages for emotional distress
25 and mental anguish or suffering.

1           Then there's a verdict form, again, for that 2 particular claim.

3           Next, 17: This deals with the violation of the Real 4 Estate Settlement Practices Act. Federal law known as the 5 Real Estate Settlement Procedures -- I said "Practices." It's 6 "Procedures." Is it "Procedures" or "Practices" because it's 7 written both ways, folks?

8           MR. WALLACE: Fair Debt Collection Practices Act.

9           THE COURT: Yeah, it says "Procedures" in the text.
10 I'm just going to put "Practices" by interlineation. It's not 11 a big issue, but . . .

12           Federal law known as the Real Estate Federal -- 13 Estate Settlement Practices Act establishes certain duties of 14 a loan servicer to respond to written requests by borrowers.
15 May claims that Nationstar violated the law by failing to 16 investigate, correct servicing errors, and by failing to 17 provide information in response to her written requests. Your 18 verdict for violation of the Real Estate Settlement
19 Procedures -- Practices Act -- sorry --

20           MS. BREIHAN: It's "Procedures."

21           THE COURT: -- must be for May if May established:
22 (1) that May or her attorney sent a qualified written request;
23 (2) Nationstar failed to respond in the time and manner
24 required by the law; and (3) that May suffered actual damages 25 as a result of Nationstar's failure to comply. The

1 instruction that follows defines "qualified written request"
2 and describe the response requirement of the law.

3 Don't concern yourself with whether it's "Practices"
4 or "Procedures." It's just one act. We'll just worry about 5 that later.

6 18: Qualified written request. A "qualified written 7 request" is written correspondence from May or her attorney 8 related to the servicing of the loan that contained May's
9 name, account number, that states the reasons for May's belief 10 that the account is in error or requests information in 11 sufficient detail. Any reasonably stated written request for 12 account information can be a qualified written request.

13 Correspondence is not a qualified written request unless it is 14 sent to the address specified by Nationstar for processing
15 qualified written requests. May alleges that Nationstar 16 waived or is estopped from requiring the three facsimiles be 17 sent to a specified address to be considered as qualified 18 written requests. If you find that May -- if you find that 19 May provided that Nationstar, by words or conduct, waived its 20 right to require that the complaint of error or request for 21 information be mailed to a specified address, then you should 22 not apply the address requirement. If you find that (1) 23 Nationstar's representative gave instructions to May that were 24 inconsistent with the address requirement for a qualified 25 written request and that May relied on those instructions when

1 sending a complaint about an error or request for information, 2 then Nationstar and -- "then" is the wrong -- is that -- are 3 you following me, Amy?

4 MS. BREIHAN: I'm sorry. What instruction, Your 5 Honor?

6 THE COURT: I'm on 18. The "then" seems 7 inappropriate. On number (2) of the bottom paragraph, 8 "information" -- "or a request for information, then 9 Nationstar" -- I think that "then Nationstar" just comes out.

10 MR. TILLOTSON: Yes, Your Honor. I should -- we 11 should delete these two words.

12 THE COURT: Yeah, I got it. I got it.

13 It's kind of like making sausage. You just -- you 14 don't want to -- you really don't want to watch it.

15 And (3) that enforcing the address requirement would 16 cause detriment to May, then you should not apply the address 17 requirement.

18 Instruction 19: Response requirements. In response 19 to a qualified written request that gives notice of error, 20 Nationstar is required to either (a) correct the error 21 identified and provide a written notice of the correction and 22 effective date of the correction or (b) conduct a reasonable 23 investigation and provide May with written notice that no 24 error occurred, a statement of the reason or reasons for this 25 determination, a statement of the borrower's right to request

1 a document relied upon by the servicer in reaching its 2 determination, and information regarding how the borrower can 3 request such documents.

4 In response to a qualified written request that 5 requests information, Nationstar is required to either (a) 6 provide May with the requested information or (b) conduct an 7 investigation and reasonable search for the requested 8 information and provide May with written notification that the 9 information is not available to Nationstar and the basis for 10 its determination.

11 For requests made prior to January 10th, 2014, 12 Nationstar was required to respond within 60 business days.
13 For requests made after January 10th, 2014, Nationstar was 14 required to respond within 30 business days; however, 15 Nationstar is permitted to request a 15-day extension to 16 respond.

17 Instruction 19A: Nationstar was not required to 18 respond to any qualified written request if it reasonably 19 determined that the request asserted the same error as an 20 error previously asserted by May.

21 Instruction 20: This is a damages instruction on 22 this Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act. If you find in 23 favor of May on her claim for violation of the Real Estate 24 Settlement Procedures Act, then you may award an amount of 25 money which will compensate May for any damages she sustained.

1 Damages for violation of the Real Estate Settlement Procedures
2 Act may include loss of time and inconvenience, harm to 3 credit, out-of-pocket costs and other monetary losses, and 4 damages for emotional distress, mental anguish and suffering.
5 And then there's a verdict form for that particular claim.

6 Instruction 21: Violation of the Fair Debt -- I
7 keep -- I apologize. Violation for the Fair Credit Reporting
8 Act. May claims that Nationstar violated the Fair Credit 9 Reporting Act, which imposes certain duties on businesses that 10 report information about borrowers to credit reporting
11 agencies. This includes a duty to conduct a reasonable 12 investigation and correct credit reporting in its response to 13 a consumer's complaint to a credit reporting agency. Your 14 verdict for violation of the Fair Credit Reporting Act must be 15 for May if May established: (1) that she disputed the 16 completeness or accuracy of the information Nationstar
17 reported to credit reporting agency with the credit reporting 18 agency and (2) that upon receiving notice of the dispute, 19 Nationstar failed to comply with its duties. Nationstar's 20 duties are to: (a) conduct a reasonable investigation of the 21 dispute; (b) review all the relevant information the credit 22 reporting agency provides; and (c) modify the information, 23 delete it, or permanently block its reporting where an 24 inaccuracy has been found. Nationstar's investigation must be 25 reasonable. Failure to comply with any of these duties is a

1 violation of the Fair Credit Reporting Act.

2 22: Willful violation of that act. If you find May 3 proved a violation of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, you must 4 decide whether the violation was willful or negligent. To 5 establish that Nationstar willfully failed to comply, May must 6 show that Nationstar knowingly and intentionally committed an 7 act in conscious disregard for the rights of May and not by 8 mistake or accident or other innocent reason. Willful failure 9 includes reckless violation of a duty with -- with conduct 10 that causes an unjustifiably high risk of harm that is either 11 known or so obvious that it should be known. A knowing -- I'm 12 sorry. A showing of malice or evil motive is not required to 13 prove willfulness.

14 Instruction 23: Willful violation damages. If you 15 find that Nationstar willfully failed to comply with its 16 duties under the Fair Credit Reporting Act, you must award May 17 an amount that will compensate her for any damages she 18 sustained and is reasonably certain to sustain in the future 19 as a direct result of Nationstar's failure to comply. For the 20 purpose of a violation of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, May 21 was denied credit as a result of Nationstar's conduct if that 22 conduct was a substantial factor in the denial of credit.
23 Damages for the violation of the Fair Credit Reporting Act may 24 include damages for loss of time and inconvenience, 25 out-of-pocket costs and other monetary losses, harm to credit,

1 or denial of credit and for emotional distress, mental anguish
2 and suffering. If you find that Nationstar willfully failed
3 to comply with its duties under the Fair Credit Reporting Act 4 and also find that May suffered no actual damages or actual 5 damages of less than $100, then you must award May at least 6 $100 but not more than $1,000.

7 Instruction 24: Punitive damages for a willful
8 violation of that act. If you find that Nationstar willfully
9 failed to comply with the duties under the Fair Credit 10 Reporting Act, then you may award punitive damages for that 11 conduct. Willful failure includes a reckless violation of a 12 duty with conduct that causes an unjustifiably high risk of 13 harm that is either known or so obvious that it should be 14 known. Punitive damages serve to punish Nationstar and to 15 deter Nationstar and others like it from similar misconduct.
16 You may award such sum as you believe will accomplish this 17 purpose; however, in determining the amount of punitive 18 damages award, you must not include damages for harm to others
19 who are not parties to this case. In answering this question, 20 consider only the conduct applicable to the Fair Credit
21 Reporting Act count and no others. Do not award punitive 22 damages for the same conduct more than once.

23 And then there's a verdict form for the willful
24 conduct allegation.

25 25 deals with the negligent violation of that act.

1 You need not consider this instruction on negligent violation
2 of the Fair Credit Reporting Act if you find in favor of May 3 on her claim for the willful violation of the Fair Credit
4 Reporting claim. May also claims Nationstar negligently
5 failed to comply with the Fair Credit Reporting Act. To prove 6 this claim, she must establish: (1) Nationstar negligently 7 failed to comply with its duties and (2) that she suffered 8 damages as a result. Negligence for the purpose of this 9 instruction means a failure to use the degree of care that an 10 ordinary or reasonably careful person would use in these 11 circumstances.

12 Instruction 26: This is the damages for the 13 negligent violation alleged. If you find Nationstar
14 negligently failed to comply with its duties under the Fair 15 Credit Reporting Act, you may award May an amount that will 16 compensate her for any damages she sustained and is reasonably 17 certain to sustain in the future as a direct result of 18 Nationstar's failure to comply. For the purpose -- for the 19 purposes of a violation of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, May 20 was denied a credit card as a result of Nationstar's conduct 21 if that conduct was a substantial factor in the denial of 22 credit. Damages for the violation of the Fair Credit 23 Reporting Act may include damages for loss of time and 24 inconvenience, out-of-pocket costs and other monetary losses, 25 hard to credit or denial of credit, and for emotional

1 distress, mental anguish and suffering.

2 Then there's a verdict form for that negligent 3 allegation.

4 27: Damages on multiple legal theories. Jeannie May 5 seeks damages from Nationstar under five legal theories. Some 6 of these theories permit the same type of damages; however, 7 you may not award damages for the same conduct. May can 8 recover only once for the same harm regardless of the number 9 of counts alleged. This is true even if you find May has met 10 her burden of proof under more than one or all of her counts.

11 28: Emotional distress damages. There is no fixed 12 standard or measure in a case of intangible items such as 13 humiliation, embarrassment, mental anguish, or emotional 14 distress. It includes all highly unpleasant mental reactions 15 such as fright or grief, shame, humiliation, loss of sleep, 16 embarrassment, anger, disappointment, worry, and nausea.
17 Emotional distress must be more than a momentary or single 18 incident of distress. The law does not set a definite 19 standard by which to calculate compensation for mental and 20 emotional suffering and distress. The law does require, 21 however, that when making an award for mental and emotional 22 suffering and distress you should exercise reasonable 23 judgment. The compensation must be just and reasonable. This 24 instruction applies to any claim where I instructed you that 25 you may award damages for emotional distress.

1 29:

2 What the heck is going on here?

3 29: The measure of punitive damages. There is no
4 fixed formula for determining the amount of punitive damages,
5 and you are not required to award punitive damages. If you 6 decide to award punitive damages, you should consider all of 7 the following factors in determining the amount:

8 (a) How reprehensible was Nationstar's conduct? In 9 determining how reprehensible Nationstar's conduct was, you 10 may consider, among other factors: (1) whether the conduct 11 caused physical harm; (2) whether Nationstar's conduct evinced 12 indifference to the health or safety of others; (3) whether 13 Nationstar's conduct involved repeated actions or an isolated 14 incident; (4) whether the harm was the result of intentional 15 malice, trickery, or deceit, or mere accident; (5) the harm
16 likely to result from Defendant's conduct as well as the harm 17 that actually occurred;

18 (b) Is there a reasonable relationship between the 19 amount of punitive damages and the harm or potential harm to 20 May that Nationstar knew was likely to occur because of its 21 conduct?

22 (c) In view of Nationstar's financial condition, what 23 amount is necessary to punish it and discourage future
24 wrongful conduct? You may not increase the punitive damages 25 award above an amount that is otherwise appropriate merely

1 because Nationstar has a substantial financial resource.

2 In determining the amount of any punitive damages 3 award, you must not include damages to harm -- for harm to 4 others who are not parties to this case.

5 Finally, Instruction 30: In conducting your,
6 deliberations and returning your verdict -- verdicts, there 7 are certain rules you must follow.

8 First, when you go to the jury room, you must select 9 one of your members as a foreperson. That person will preside 10 over your discussions and speak for you here in court.

11 Second, it is your duty as jurors to discuss this 12 case with one another in the jury room. You should try to 13 reach an agreement if you can do so without violence to 14 individual judgment because a verdict must be unanimous. Each 15 of you must make your own conscientious decision but only 16 after you have considered the evidence, discussed it fully 17 with your fellow jurors, and listened to the views of your 18 fellow jurors. Do not be afraid to change your opinions if 19 the discussion persuades you that you should, but do not come 20 to a decision simply because other jurors think it's right or 21 simply to reach a verdict. Remember at all times you are not 22 partisans. You are judges, judges of the facts. Your sole 23 interest is to seek truth from the evidence in the case.

24 Third, if you need to communicate with me during 25 deliberations, you may send a note to me through the marshal

1 or bailiff, signed by one or more jurors. I will respond as 2 soon as possible, either in writing or orally here in open 3 court. Remember that you should not tell anyone, including 4 me, how your votes stand numerically.

5 Fourth, your verdict must be based solely upon the 6 evidence and on the law which I have given to you in my 7 instructions. The verdict must be unanimous. Nothing I have 8 said or done is intended to suggest what your verdict should 9 be. That's entirely for you to decide.

10 Finally, the verdict form is simply the written 11 notice of the decision that you reach in this case. You will 12 take this form to the jury room -- these forms -- and when 13 each of you has agreed on the verdicts, your foreperson will 14 fill in the forms, sign it and date it, and advise the 15 marshals or bailiff that you are ready to return to the 16 courtroom.

17 Those are the instructions, ladies and gentlemen.

18 Each side has 35 minutes to argue their case to you.
19 The Plaintiff has split -- gets to split theirs up. So they 20 go first, and Mr. -- I think, Mr. Wallace, you're going to 21 start from the Plaintiff's side?

22 MR. WALLACE: Yes, Your Honor.

23 THE COURT: All right. Do you want to get situated?

24 MR. WALLACE: Okay. Thank you. As I reflect back 25 over what we heard here this week, the evidence that we

1 gathered since this case was filed in February of '14 about 2 Nationstar, I'm stunned, still stunned today. They did this 3 to Ms. May. She didn't do anything to deserve it, and of all 4 the people, think about the calls that she had with them, the 5 recordings that she told them over and over and over, "Get it 6 right. Make sure you investigate this because you're wrong.
7 Don't do this."

8 She wrote them countless letters. She faxed them.
9 She talked to them over and over and over, and they never 10 listened, and when she did try to reach out and explain it 11 even further, it just made it worse. You know, she -- she 12 told them on the call, the first call, she wasn't behind, and 13 then she faxed documents, and what did they do in response to 14 that? They sent her a demand letter that said, "We're going 15 to foreclose on your house. You've got 35 days to pay 16 $6,000." And then they started sending her letters that said, 17 "Your money is going in suspense." So all the while, she's 18 doing everything she can to get somebody's attention to listen 19 and act in good faith, act with good faith, and it's going 20 nowhere.

21 And so she sends them a letter, the qualified written 22 request, the formal one, and what does that do? They pump out 23 garbage, a form letter that is evaluated by the bankruptcy
24 research department. The people that were involved in this 25 early on figured it out, and then for whatever reason, cash

1 said, "We're not doing it," rejected it, and nobody comes back 2 and looks at it, and so it's back in that same department, and 3 what did they do with it? They pumped out a form letter with 4 a 40-, 50-page statement of all the transactions on her 5 account, which is incomprehensible, I think. That's what she 6 thought, and they said, "Well, if you look on page 39, you 7 might figure it out." That was their response. They have a 8 duty to investigate, a reasonable investigation, when she 9 notifies them of it, and what did they do after they got the 10 QWR? They sent her the demand letter, which triggered 11 everything that happened at that point, the one that said, 12 "We're going to foreclose. 35 days to pay the $6,000," again, 13 and then they started rejecting her payments.

14           So think about this. You're doing everything you 15 can. She's doing everything she can to save her home. She's 16 communicating with them, and everything she does escalates 17 this thing worse. So now, in September and October, she 18 starts buying boxes and packing up. You'll see -- you saw the 19 receipts. There were 60 something boxes she bought and packed 20 up and moved out.

21           And then she gets the letter from the law firm, and 22 so she reaches out to Mr. Healey, and he writes a letter to 23 the law firm, and, boy, you would think that might get some 24 attention, but it doesn't. They just send a form letter 25 that -- and Nationstar agreed -- was not responsive at all.

1 And then he sent another letter, saying, "You guys didn't 2 answer my questions. Look at this. Here's the issue. Check
3 this out. Investigate it." And their response was to say, 4 "We're going to sell her home on February 24th at 10:00 a.m."

5 And so after all of that, the lawsuit is filed to 6 shut this thing down. A temporary restraining order. And 7 finally, they stop.

8 And Ms. May writes some more letters to try and get 9 her account straightened out so she can make her payments and 10 continue with life. Even after the lawsuit is filed, four or 11 five months later, she files the credit reporting dispute, and 12 you'll remember; she told them in one of the earliest calls, 13 "Don't mess with my credit. Please correct it. Keep 14 correcting it." So she files the dispute, which you have to 15 do. Otherwise, we would not have this Fair Credit Reporting 16 Act claim. The law would not protect us. So she files the 17 dispute with the credit reporting agency, Equifax, and they 18 notify them, and they send the dispute letters to them, to 19 Nationstar, and what did they do? This is -- so she's talked 20 to research. She's dealt with QWR. She's talked to all these 21 employees. We've heard the recordings. And now, finally, 22 it's in another department, and you would think these guys 23 could get it right -- the credit reporting department -- and 24 they have, as you saw, a duty to conduct an investigation, and 25 all they did was look at that same screen that everybody else

1 looked at and said, "Well, she's behind. That's what we're 2 reporting." And they did nothing but make it worse. They 3 expanded it over 22 months.

4 So how does something like this happen to somebody 5 who has done everything she can think of to solve the problem
6 and give them every piece of information they need to solve 7 the problem? The problem is it's culture. It's the business
8 culture at Nationstar. Their business culture is to overwhelm 9 their employees where they do not have the resources and the 10 capacity to deal with the issues they're dealing with. When 11 you're talking about 1,000 accounts and 100 calls and that 12 they're complaining to their manager that they can't talk to 13 the research department and the manager does nothing about it 14 and they come in here and they tell us it's the human 15 factor -- you heard Mr. Loll say that on the video, and you 16 may have heard it live. "It's the human factor. We've got 17 the human factor in play here." But they caused the human 18 factor failure here. It's -- these employees are -- we're not 19 here to say these are bad people or anything. I don't believe 20 that at all. Neither does my client. But they were -- they 21 could not ever get to the solution, which Mr. Loll admitted 22 early was easy if they'd just looked. Now, why wouldn't they 23 look? Because they're crushing them, and so it's business 24 culture at Nationstar. And how do you change culture? How do 25 you change someone's culture? You've got to shock it. You've

1 got to wake it up. Otherwise, it's going to be business as 2 usual at Nationstar.

3 I heard Mr. Loll, because I asked several times in 4 the deposition video, and then you saw him on the stand.

5 "Did you tell Fannie Mae what happened here? Have 6 you given them this evidence?

7 "They're aware of it. They're aware of it.

8 "Did you give it to them?"

9 He never would answer the question.

10 They've got this Five STAR servicing rating
11 supposedly. Fannie Mae owns the loan, and if -- you know, you 12 would think they might want to know how the servicing is 13 going, but they're burying their numbers in these bulk things 14 they're sending them, so it may never get found, and you guys 15 are the conscience of the community. Is it okay to service a 16 loan the way they did here? Is it okay to treat somebody like 17 they did here?

18 I mean, she genuinely, honestly believed she was 19 losing her home after doing everything she could to stop it.
20 They tried to break her. I mean, this is Jeannie May, who's 21 lived in this community all her life, worked in this community
22 all her life. She came into some tough times back in 2007, 23 but she dealt with it. Fannie Mae needs to know, and the only 24 way they're going to know is with what you do today.

25 Now, Mr. -- Mr. Loll testified that it was the human

11/20/2015

Volume 5

30

1 factor, and he pointed out Mr. Muller and blamed Mr. Muller.
2 He said he sternly reprimanded him. You know who I didn't 3 hear that had been reprimanded was Faye Agyeman. She's one of 4 the corporate representatives that signed that discovery under 5 oath four months after the lawsuit was filed, and she told 6 me -- after they supposedly discovered the error, she says in 7 the discovery response -- and it's been highlighted up here -- 8 that they discovered the error in April, but two months after 9 that, she's answering that discovery that you have, Exhibit 10 233 that we showed you, and what does she say? The legal -- 11 what do they call themselves? Their legal something at 12 Nationstar, the legal team. And her response under oath, 13 under the penalty of perjury, was there was no mistakes, no 14 errors, and it went that way all the way until March of this 15 year, March of '15. Then they changed their tune. "Oh, we 16 might have made an error."

17 And then I sat down with Mr. Loll on May 15th or 18 May 7th. It was this year, twice within a week. And then 19 everything changed. Not only was it an error. There was all 20 kinds of errors, and you heard about all these errors, but 21 Mr. Loll, who, for purposes of us, is Nationstar here today -- 22 Mr. Loll -- I mean, he wasn't aware of any of this stuff, and 23 even as of the third day of this trial and having spent 300
24 hours, he's still auditing her account. What kind of business 25 is this over at Nationstar that they're having to spend 300

1 hours by a gentleman who's been in the industry for 30 years, 2 a vice president of every department at Nationstar except 3 origination? And it takes him 300 hours? Oh, they're taking 4 it serious. I mean, we could see, by looking over there, the 5 resources that they put in. They're here, but up until I sat
6 down with him in May of this year, no.

7 Sole cause. I'm going to talk to you about something
8 in the jury instructions. You heard -- and I'm going to show
9 you the testimony in just a minute. So Nationstar's lawyer
10 asked the gentleman from Nebraska that we went up and deposed 11 from World's Foremost Bank, "Was it the sole cause -- was 12 Nationstar's tradeline the sole cause you denied this?" And 13 he said, "No." And then she asked Dr. Maestas, "Was 14 Nationstar's conduct the sole cause for her distress?" And he 15 said, "No." It's a red herring. Why? Because the law says 16 right here in the instructions that you'll get -- you got it 17 there? Great. Okay. If you see, I've got it up there.
18 Number (3) here on the invasion of privacy, "that Nationstar's 19 intrusion directly caused or directly contributed to cause 20 damage." There's nothing about sole cause, the only cause.
21 How could you ever prove it's the only cause in life? It 22 doesn't -- I mean it's very rare. But so the law is directly 23 caused or directly contributed. And repeatedly in the 24 testimony, that was their angle to confuse. Was it the sole 25 cause? Of course not. It's not the sole cause. There's all

1 kinds of things, but it was a direct cause or directly 2 contributed to what she experienced.

3 Let's go to Munson's testimony. Munson was the 4 Equifax -- corporate representative of Equifax, and you can 5 see here, the employee of Equifax. Now, scroll down, would 6 you please? Thank you. Mr. Loll testified the other day that 7 he did not get -- according to when he talked to Elizabeth 8 Hansen, they did not get a copy of her dispute letter because, 9 apparently, things would have been very different if they'd 10 gotten a dispute letter from Equifax. This investigation 11 would have been different. Do you remember that? So 12 Mr. Humphreys stood up here and said, "Well, your policies and 13 procedures show that you get them.

14 "Well, I don't know why we didn't get it."

15 So, fortunately, I asked Ms. Munson this at Equifax, 16 and she said it three separate times in the testimony. I've 17 got it highlighted. They sent the dispute letter to 18 Nationstar with the attachments. Next one. That's one of 19 them right there. As well as sending a copy of the image of 20 the dispute letter to Nationstar Mortgage. And one more time 21 she said it. So -- and finally, let's look at Exhibit 65.
22 Now, this is the ACDV as it's produced by Equifax, the credit
23 reporting agency, and if you'll highlight for me that area I 24 was talking about. Yeah, it's kind of hard to read. Okay.
25 That's beautiful. Right there. Okay. So a couple of things

1 I want to point out. She testified that this top line here, 2 right here, this right here, that's what Equifax sends to 3 Nationstar, and they say, "This is what we show you're 4 reporting at this time. You need to investigate this 5 dispute -- here's her dispute -- and then verify, modify, 6 respond somehow and tell us how you want to respond."

7 And this was Equifax's response right here, this 8 line, and so they changed it from these dashes which said no 9 information to all these other numbers, which the "5" means 10 150 to 179 days and the "6" means beyond that. So they 11 crushed the credit. That was the response to the 12 investigation. And if you'll go back up here, too, they also 13 changed it to show that it was a collection account. We heard
15 Collection account. That's how they changed it.

16 And then the most important part of this thing. If 17 you'll scroll to the next page. Right here. "Images sent."
18 And you see the two tif files. This is Equifax's record, and 19 it showed that they sent the dispute letters.

20 Now, as you'll see in the law in just a minute, they 21 had a duty to do a reasonable investigation.

22 How am I doing on time there?

23 THE COURT: You have -- you're at 16 minutes.

24 MR. WALLACE: Thank you, sir.

25 So they had a job to do a reasonable investigation,

1 and the instruction tells you that they had to look at what 2 Equifax sent them and evaluate their information and do a 3 reasonable investigation, and so supposedly, they discovered 4 the error in April of '14. This dispute letter is in their 5 box in July of '14. So what is that? Three months later.
6 And do you remember we saw the discovery, and it says, "We 7 immediately applied the money. We immediately made the fix to 8 her account when we discovered it in April." Lori Harp did.
9 So I'm sitting there, and I'm wondering, well, if you really 10 did that, how is it that the credit reporting department, when 11 they do their investigation, they don't see that because he 12 said they would look at the transactions. How is it that they 13 don't figure out that they've corrected it and they've fixed 14 it and they've applied the money? It's because they're not 15 doing a reasonable investigation. They're not correcting 16 their records internally. It's a sham. And so it would be 17 one thing if that's the first thing she did was dispute the 18 credit and they did an investigation, but this was after all 19 the letters, the faxes, the calls, the emails. It's crazy.

20 Would you pull up Exhibit 119, please? So this is 21 one of the emails. I'm going to clear this off here. This is 22 one of the emails that came down. If you'll roll down to the 23 next page, please. In May of '13, this is -- and we know that 24 because we see "May" up here, and there's a date on here
25 somewhere. Right here. May '13. Do you see that? And so

1 this Kaitlyn, the research resolution analyst at Nationstar, 2 is looking at credit for Mrs. May here, because Mrs. May has 3 complained directly to them a year and two months before, and 4 they're supposedly dealing with it. So they've known about 5 the credit reporting issues for a long time, and they've done
6 nothing but crush her credit, and we've never been here to say 7 it was picture perfect credit. She came out of a bankruptcy, 8 and I understand that, and she understands that, but it was a 9 13, and she'd paid on it for five years. Those accounts that 10 they wanted you to focus on so much -- they're all from 2007 11 and before when she filed the bankruptcy, except for the 12 U.S. Bank, which is paid as agreed, and the only other account 13 she had was Nationstar, and so if the only other account you 14 have is your mortgage, which is the big player in your credit, 15 and it says what they're saying, you've got nothing.

16 I know Mr. Loll testified he's got 300 hours on this 17 thing, and their lawyer asked her how much time she spent.
18 She said -- she agreed to 500. I mean, if you really think 19 about it, they took -- I mean, we're rolling up on three years 20 on this thing, and they took a year or two years of her life.
21 Really, if you think you're losing your home and you have no 22 control over it, none, everything you do goes into a vacuum.
23 Nothing. It can be paralyzing, consuming. It can destroy 24 your relationship with others. It can destroy your ability to 25 handle situations. It ultimately drove her to say, "I can't

1 handle work anymore. I've got to get rid of a level of stress
2 here so I can just function." They're messing with people, 3 and they messed with her, and it's -- I mean it's disgusting.
4 It really is disgusting and appalling that they think this -- 5 that they can get up and say, "We're sorry," and this is good 6 faith.

7 I want to talk to you about the QWR, the facsimiles.
8 You've got an instruction, and we're arguing and the law is, 9 as you'll see in the instruction, that she sent those 10 facsimiles instead of sending a letter, and the reason she did 11 is because they told her. You heard it on the recordings.
12 "Fax it to this number." And I asked, "Is that the policy at 13 Nationstar if somebody calls in?

14 "Yeah. You tell them to fax it. You don't tell them 15 to mail it."

16 And the reason is because they're back here saying 17 now, "Well, those faxes should not be QWRs because she didn't 18 mail it to our special address."

19 Excuse me?

20 THE COURT: Hey, folks, shhh.

21 MR. WALLACE: "She didn't mail it to our special 22 address." That's their defense here. They told her, and the 23 law is if they told her and she relied on it, they waived it.

24 Under those QWRs, too, you see the law that says they 25 have a duty to do a reasonable investigation, a reasonable

1 investigation. They didn't do any of that. None of it. So 2 they're going to get up here. One of the exhibits that they 3 introduced a minute ago or yesterday was her statement that 4 she got in March of 2013, and you remember he asked her if 5 that was the balance on the loan at that time, $92,000, and 6 then he wrote in big marker "$92,000" across it as the balance
7 of her loan, and then he asked her, "Did you get five -- you 8 have 500 hours at $28 an hour." And so their -- I think their 9 analysis of what you should do here is award her the balance 10 on the home and the lost wages for the 500 hours here, $28 an 11 hour, so in the neighborhood of 14,000 for that, and they 12 think that's what's called good.

13 But I'm telling you if you take a year or two years 14 of somebody's life and crush them, we're not talking about 15 $92,000 or $100,000 or anything close to that. You guys are 16 going to decide what it's worth. What -- what should 17 Nationstar owe her because of the harm that they caused her?
18 It's two different things going on here. The damages to her.
19 What they did to her.

20 THE COURT: Two minutes.

21 MR. WALLACE: Thank you. You ultimately decide. I'm 22 going to suggest something, and it's where I'm coming from, 23 but you're the ultimate decider, and I don't want to offend
24 you. I don't want to hurt your feelings or anything like 25 that. I'm just going to tell you straight up where I'm coming

1 from. I think -- if you do this kind of conduct and it's this 2 long and it's gone on this long, I think the actual damages, 3 the emotional upset, the distress, the other things they drove 4 her to, and the other things she testified to -- we're talking 5 about actual damages in the range of two million to five 6 million. That's my thinking on this.

7           The other part of this is the punitives. Now, the 8 instructions talk about the punitives have to be in a 9 reasonable relationship to the actuals. You can't go out 10 there and award a crazy number on punitives and nothing on -- 11 there's no relationship. It has to be reasonable, and the 12 instruction is the emotional distress amount has to be 13 reasonable, too, to the punitives. So those have to be 14 reasonable, and I think -- I mean, I think Mr. Loll needs to 15 have a message help sending him back to Texas so that he makes 16 sure that the message gets to Fannie Mae and Nationstar so 17 they turn it around and they come back with they understand, 18 "We can't do this anymore in Missouri." And my number I'm 19 going to suggest to you -- and I don't mean to offend you or 20 anything like that. This is your call completely. I'm 21 thinking it's somewhere between 25 and 50 million to get their 22 attention, to make it right, to stand up and do business. If 23 you look at that last instruction on punitives, it speaks 24 about reprehensibility, whether it was repeated courses of 25 conduct, whether they evince indifference.

1 THE COURT: Twenty-five minutes.

2 MR. WALLACE: Thank you.

3 So I'm done, and Mr. Humphreys is going to talk to 4 you in just a minute. I'm going to tell you one thing that 5 it's -- it's -- we're glad to be here finally, and thank you 6 for your service. Thank you.

7 Thank you, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Thank you. Okay. Defendant's closing.
9 If you all want to -- while they adjust the technology, if you
10 all want to stand up and stretch, you may do so. You don't 11 have to. Do whatever you wish to do.

12 Let me know when you're ready.

13 MR. TILLOTSON: Yes, Your Honor.

14 If it may please the Court.

15 THE COURT: You may.

16 MR. TILLOTSON: Ladies and gentlemen of the Jury, 17 thank you so much for being here and thank you for listening
18 to us. I want to correct one thing, an impression Mr. Wallace 19 left you with, which is that we were trying to dodge things or 20 we were trying to avoid responsibility. For, literally, the 21 first time in almost 30 years of being a lawyer, I stood up 22 and said, "We made mistakes. We made errors. We should have 23 done better." And Mr. Loll sat here and listened to every bit 24 of the testimony, and I didn't challenge things, and even when 25 they had some technical difficulties putting on their

1 evidence, I stood up and said, "Let us put it on for you."
2 That was because my client told me, "Let her tell her story.
3 Don't keep anything from the Jury. I want to hear it. I want
4 to make sure I know it, and I want her to have the opportunity
5 to say it." That's extraordinary. We're not expecting credit 6 for that or a gold star for that or a bonus for that. We're 7 just trying to tell you we get it, we got it, and we 8 understand.

9           You now know that this error came from the oddest of 10 mistakes, from our perspective, in terms of the way it 11 happened, and the reason I say that is because he stood up and 12 told you we have a culture where we don't care, we work our 13 people too hard, but in fact, the very first thing we showed 14 you was the error in this case began not because we didn't 15 care but because Matt Baxter, in our bankruptcy specialist
16 department, was trying to see and make sure Ms. May got credit 17 for $51 from 2008 when we didn't even have the servicing.
18 Using our time, our resources, our effort, someone in our 19 department is trying to make sure she got every dollar of 20 credit she was entitled to on her loan. It was before this 21 lawsuit ever came about, before we ever made a mistake. That, 22 I would submit, is the kind of company this is and not the 23 travesty and the mess you saw when the mistakes happened and 24 we wrongfully took money from Ms. May's account that was 25 supposed to be applied to Ms. Hoyt's account. It doesn't

1 excuse or justify anything that happened. I'm going to talk
2 more about that. I think it's important when we talk about 3 culture to see the context of what happened here. He was 4 trying to find that last $51 for her. We couldn't have 5 possibly been making money on that. We couldn't have possibly 6 been looking for a profit motive on that. It was an effort to 7 be a good servicer, and we screwed it up thereafter, as you 8 know.

9           Second point, in whatever small measure of defense
10 for us, the error was made on March 27th, 2013, and it's noted 11 in our records what we were doing. March 30th, 2017 [sic], 12 we'd made the error. We had mentioned it to Ms. May, and she 13 mentioned it back to us, and I put the transcript here where 14 she told us, "You told me you were debiting this from 15 CitiMortgage," and I don't do that to justify it or to say any 16 part is her problem or her fault. I only do it to say that 17 what it was is some effort, as we're talking to her, to 18 explain to her what happened and what we were thinking.

19           Now, it goes on. When we told her that on April 30th 20 and we told her that we're going to take it to a manager, the 21 records show we did take it to a manager on May 2nd, and as 22 you know, the research department did see it and did get her 23 faxes that she sent and looked at it, and as you know, the 24 research department, on May 15th, did try to bring the loan 25 current. This is the kind of servicer that I think they

1 really are. That means within 45 days of making this mistake
2 someone within Nationstar recognized it, looked at her faxes,
3 and said, "Let's correct it."

4 Now, from that point on, we messed it up, and we've 5 said that, and we acknowledge it, and we own it, but that's 6 the kind of culture at the company. It started off because we 7 were trying to help and make sure she got full credit. It 8 started off. We tried to fix it within 45 days. That's what 9 we were trying to do.

10 Now, as you know, from there, we messed it. We made 11 an error, and it compounded, and it continued, and we were 12 never at our best, and we take responsibility for that because 13 of those codes and what happened, and you saw Mr. Muller, and 14 you heard Mr. Loll say how he treated him on what he did, and 15 that's the honest basis for it.

16 One thing you didn't hear -- and I reject this -- is 17 that we didn't care. No one ever said that. There was no 18 evidence of anyone who knew for a fact this was a mistake and 19 said, "Who cares? Let's try and collect it." Because that's 20 not the kind of company we are. And I put on evidence and 21 showed you from Mr. Loll it goes beyond just caring for 22 customers. It's part of us and who we are, but it's good 23 business for us. We get better business, we do better if we 24 treat our customers right. We're better off if they're paying 25 and they're current and they're happy. When they refinance,

1 it helps us. That's the kind of culture we are.

2 He says, "Does Fannie Mae know?" We report to Fannie
3 Mae. Mr. Loll told you we give them our results. They know 4 how we are. That's what we're talking about in terms of what 5 kind of company and what kind of business this is. It's hard 6 fought and hard earned to earn a Five STAR rating. We lost it
7 here. We lost it. Everyone knows how hard it is to build a 8 reputation. All of us that work for businesses or have that 9 experience. You make mistakes, and you know how bad you feel.
10 The real question is: Is this a company that said, "I don't 11 care there's a mistake here. I know their mistake. Hey, it's 12 good for us to put her in foreclosure. It's good for us to do 13 default"? Or is this a company that made a mistake and 14 compounded it but never intentionally tried to hurt her? And 15 that's why we're here. Because you know once the lawsuit was 16 filed it should have never happened. She should have never 17 been required to file that lawsuit. We've said we're sorry 18 for it, and we're going to be accountable for it.

19 But after it was filed, you know in May of 2014 we 20 fixed it, sent her a letter saying, "We're putting back the 21 $5,162," and we did it again in October where we said, "All 22 right. We fixed it, but we didn't fix it completely. We 23 haven't removed the suspense funds. We haven't fixed your 24 credit rating." And we did it October 31st. We brought the 25 account to current status, and we fixed her credit rating at

1 that time. It took way too long. It should have never 2 happened. This case should have ended back in May of 2013
3 with Mr. Muller. He should have made sure. He told you and 4 he testified and Mr. Loll told you and he testified that 5 Mr. Muller had never had a cash request rejected. So he 6 didn't look. We've learned our lesson on that one. We 7 changed our procedures so that never happens again, but there 8 certainly wasn't evidence that we knew cash requests were 9 being rejected and we didn't care about it.

10 And, finally, today, we put on evidence we've removed 11 any wrongful charges. She's only due for what's coming 12 forward. And confirmed that. And I made my witness, for the 13 first time in 30 years, say on the stand, say it under oath, 14 promise it to her so that it never happens again. And I gave 15 the phone number so if she ever has a problem she knows who to 16 call and who to contact and any borrower knows who to call and 17 who to contact. I understand she doesn't want to call him, 18 but I'm trying to show, we tried to put on evidence we get it.
19 We understand.

20 Now, you also saw our various efforts to improve. We 21 now require vice presidential approval for any debits. We 22 won't do debits from old bankruptcies. This issue won't 23 happen. We now route bankruptcy matters to managers in 24 bankruptcy. So if a Ms. May in the future complains and says 25 there's some screwup, whatever, it's automatically routed to

1 the bankruptcy department, who can deal with it and know about 2 it. That's called a Code 43. We train our callers to elevate 3 those problems. "Don't let these things fester." We ensure 4 now all the caller notes are loaded as your default. There 5 will never be a situation where someone says, "I didn't see 6 all the notes." And no more worse credit reporting.

7 This is a company that cares off this case, these 8 changes. This is a company that got it, that understands and 9 regrets it and wants to be better, not because we're afraid of 10 justice, but because we service two and a half million loans, 11 and we have an obligation to all of them to do these things, 12 and we want to do them because it's the right thing to do.
13 It's good for business, and it's how we should act.

14 And, finally, increased awareness and reporting. And 15 Mr. Loll testified he sat down and investigated with all the 16 people where they had shortcomings. He trained it where he 17 thought it might be something broader than just the people he 18 talked about. He called the managers. He did the things you 19 would expect. That's why he spent 300 hours. That's why he 20 had spent that much time. "Investigate. Ask. Find out.
21 Fix. Make yourselves better."

22 Now, we took all of that. We took -- we're agreed.
23 We acknowledged our mistakes. We said we're responsible. We 24 said it was wrong. We understand and get it, and there's no 25 other way to say it than that, but I've told you in addition

1 to owning up to it, fixing our mistakes, and doing our best so
2 it doesn't happen in the future, why are we here? Because now 3 we're down to what's the right compensation and what's the 4 claim that they've alleged that in any way involves or 5 might -- for which we might be responsible or liable. That's 6 the lawsuit. That's why we're still here.

7           The first claim is the intentional invasion of 8 privacy claim, and as we go through these claims -- and this 9 is from the jury instruction that you will get and that the 10 Judge read. As we go through these claims, you'll see what I 11 told you in opening, that there are claims that have the 12 "intentional" word in them, intentional acts, which means you 13 know you're doing wrong. You know what you're doing is wrong, 14 and you do it anyway. I know if I do something wrong, that's 15 called intentional. And the reason we quarreled, if at all, 16 was because we felt internally that the investigation showed 17 no one was intentionally going out to intrude on her privacy 18 knowing they were doing wrong. Yes, property inspections were 19 ordered. Yes, it's because Fannie Mae requirements and 20 regulations. Yes, it's because in her mortgage we have the 21 right to do that. Yes, we did those things. Yes, in this 22 context, with her not owing the money, it was wrong. Everyone 23 said that, and we don't in any way ask to be excused for that, 24 but what we are saying and what we felt was, at the very 25 least, we didn't do it intentionally knowing it was wrong or

1 to harm her. Simple as that.

2 And so when you go through these and you look to see 3 the elements, I ask you to, at the very least, consider the 4 evidence that Nationstar has put on that they were not trying 5 to intentionally intrude. Everything Mr. Wallace said about 6 what happened, the missed opportunities, the failure to 7 correct is true, but that's different from whether or not we 8 intentionally sought to do it on these claims.

9 Now -- and I'm going to use and I'll show you in a 10 minute -- the claims have very similar sorts of damages when 11 you get to assess that. If you find that we did some of these 12 things intentionally under some of these claims, you then have 13 to consider what's the appropriate amount of compensation or 14 damages, and we've spent a whole week, and you're probably 15 wondering, "Okay. They fixed it. What's the story here?" So 16 we get to the very last minute, within the last couple of 17 minutes, when the Plaintiff's lawyers finally tell you, "Well, 18 here's the eye-popping number I want," and that's where we 19 disagree over what's justice and what's fair but also what's 20 compensable.

21 The law in this case, as you will see, on damages is 22 not just a number pulled from the air that's big, that seems 23 like it might be the number. It's actually award of damages 24 which will compensate her for the damages she has sustained 25 and is reasonably certain to sustain in the future as the

1 result of our conduct, the things we did, and as you can see,
2 we give you -- the Court gives you the law as to what you look 3 at, and that's why, as we're here, we started talking about 4 what you look at because now we're down to money and how you 5 come up with that if you find damages are warranted in this 6 case.

7           The first is loss of time and inconvenience. Well, I
8 know of no other way than to say, "How much time did you 9 spend?" And it can be what she thought she did, and I used 10 her salary number before she quit her job as a reasonable way 11 to compensate her for every hour she spent messing around with 12 these guys. Pay her as if she was at her job, and she said 13 500 hours, and you're free to accept that or adjust it as you 14 may see fit, but it comes to that number if you do the math.
15 That's not an insubstantial amount of money, and you may say, 16 "Well, you know, she might have spent 600" or "We should pay 17 her a little bit more by the hour for it," but that's the kind 18 of notion we're talking about in terms of what you actually 19 suffered. Saying it's two million dollars is not really based 20 on the evidence and is an effort by Plaintiff's lawyers to 21 impose and put emotion into the case when what the law tells 22 you is look at the facts.

23           The second one after loss of time and convenience is 24 harm to credit.

25           (Telephone rings.)

1 MR. TILLOTSON: Is that my warning?

2 Harm to credit. And that means what did we do that 3 hurt her credit. Now, you know we did mess up her credit.
4 I've not backed away from that. However, we fixed it, and the 5 evidence is we fixed it in October of 2014, and Ms. May said
6 that on the stand. Her credit was clean as of October 2014, 7 and we were able, fortunately, to go back in time and wipe it 8 out, and as of October 2014 going forward, her credit has been 9 clean, and she testified that since then, recently, she was 10 able to both get a credit card and get a loan. She told you 11 that she applied for two credit cards to see what happened, 12 not because of her finances, and she was turned down, and I 13 understand that, but I ask you to keep in consideration that 14 the damages to harm to her credit were fairly limited in 15 duration and have been fixed and that she has not shown you or 16 talked about any out-of-pocket expenses related to that.

17 The next one is then out-of-pocket costs, and I'm not 18 trying to be mean or minimize things, but this is what the law 19 says you get as damages, and that's what you're guided by 20 here, and the out-of-pocket damages she told us was -- we 21 stipulated -- was $500. This is not a case where it cost her 22 a lot out of her pocket. I'm not trying to minimize the 23 injury. That's what the law says, and that's what you look at 24 in these kinds of cases.

25 And, finally, the one I think that's really the

1 driver here is the emotional distress, mental anguish and 2 suffering. The Judge gives you an instruction on this, which 3 is Instruction No. 28, where he tells you there's really no 4 fixed measure. It's up to you. It does give you some 5 cautionary instructions that when you make it for emotional 6 distress you should exercise reasonable judgment and the 7 compensation must be just and reasonable.

8 Now, from the witness stand, Ms. May said, rightfully 9 so, "I want justice," but there's a difference between justice
10 and vengeance, justice and punishment. Justice in this case 11 is what she wanted, and I tried to be as straightforward and 12 ask her. I said, "You know, we've gone out of our way. You 13 know, if you have problems -- we thought we fixed it -- call 14 our guy."

15 She said, "I don't want to ever talk to him again," 16 and I understand. I get it.

17 But then I asked her, "What's really driving here?
18 What was the real problem?"

19 The real problem, as he told you, is she thought she 20 was going to lose her home for a period of time, and we were 21 calling her and agitating her with these collection notes, 22 collection practices. That was the real driver. I asked her, 23 "Do you want to get away from us? Is that what you're trying 24 to do in this case?"

25 And she said, "Yes. I want to have nothing to do

1 with you." That's where I came up with this. This is what 2 she owed on her home before we ever messed up her account -- 3 $92,664, and I would suggest a fair way, a just way to 4 compensate her for her emotional distress damages is to free 5 her from the thing, the harm that we caused her, which is the 6 fear of losing her home. With this award and whatever else
7 you put onto it, she will never have to worry about her 8 mortgage again. She is free from that stress, free from us.
9 Round it up. Put some more on there if you think that that's 10 fair.

11 But the point of the driver of this case, the 12 emotional distress when she thought she might lose her home, 13 and the best way I could come up with and that I thought the 14 evidence showed that was a fair way was to say, "All right.
15 Nationstar, you made her think she was going to lose her home.
16 A fair result here is she'll never have to worry about that 17 again -- taking care of her home." There's a difference 18 between removing that stress and saying millions of dollars 19 and saying she should get 20 free homes or 50 free homes as a 20 result of this. I've tried to keep it practical. I've tried 21 to keep it just.

22 And mind you, when this man has to go back and say, 23 "Okay. Because of our servicing errors, we have to pay off 24 someone's mortgage," that comes out of our pocket. We don't 25 own the loan. We can't just simply give her a credit. We

11/20/2015

52

1 have to write a check to CitiMortgage -- I mean to Fannie Mae.
2 That comes out of our pocket. That's a pain we suffer. And I 3 would ask you to consider that or some approximate of that 4 because that's really what drives this here. The stress that 5 she thought she was going to lose her home from approximately 6 when we started doing collections in March and April 2014
7 until we stopped and the lawsuit was filed in February.

8 And I want to mention to you three areas to focus on 9 when you look at the emotional distress damages. The first is 10 the time frame. After February 2014, the lawsuit was filed.
11 We didn't send her any collection calls -- collection letters, 12 make any collection calls, threaten to foreclose or try and 13 foreclose. We stopped. The case was still on. There were 14 still problems with the account, but the emotional distress 15 that drove her justifiable anger and frustration was largely 16 stopped by February 2014. So I ask you in looking at the 17 emotional distress to look at the duration and, second, to 18 look at and see the medical records when she complained to her 19 doctor, when she didn't complain about when she was suffering
20 distress. No one should have to go to the doctor to complain 21 about something a mortgage company is doing. I get that, but 22 when you look at what's just compensation, I ask you to look 23 at the evidence as to what happened.

24 The other thing you have to look at is the other 25 things in her life causing distress. Here's why. If you want

1 to award and make us pay for the stress we caused her, then 2 it's only fair under the law that it be just the stress we 3 caused her and that we don't be responsible and have to pay 4 for other stress in her life, and so you know, from her doctor 5 notes and things she said, there was other things going on in 6 her life -- her fight with her neighbor, her problems at 7 work -- that were causing her stress in whatever percentage 8 that you allocate. They may have been small. They may have 9 been modest, but at the very least, the law compels you and,
10 in justice and fairness, I hope you will take into account 11 other things and adjust and allocate for only those things 12 that we were causing her.

13 Finally, third, which is what was causing her the 14 most stress, and address that issue, and that's where I came 15 up with free her from her mortgage obligation, and for the 16 remainder of Ms. May's life, she doesn't have to worry about 17 her mortgage ever again, and it won't -- and it's no -- 18 because there's no fixed measure, but I believe it's a just 19 way to do it.

20 Finally, you can look at other monetary losses.
21 She's talked about her job, but I hate it tell you -- and I 22 want to be careful because I don't want to minimize what 23 happened. She quit her job in May of 2014. We had not done
24 any collection calls. We were not calling her, sending her 25 letters. The case was in litigation. She told me on the stand, I think, in all fairness, that she quit because she had a new difficult boss and had some problems before she left. I don't think it's fair or just or, frankly, supported by the evidence to require us to pay for 10 years of differences in her wages over that period of time. I don't think that's a fair result. I don't think that was supported by the evidence, and I would ask you to put that aside because I don't really think that was a problem caused by us. I think that was really more of a result of her work situation and her boss situation, and then she went back in December.

Now, as you go through these, you're going to see Instruction 27, and this is damages on multiple legal theories, and the reason it's significant is because it tells you although they have many claims -- and you'll see them back there -- you cannot award damages over -- for the same conduct over and over. So for each of the claims, they may be seeking emotional distress damages, but once you do it once, as you go on to the next claims, you can't re-award damages for the same conduct. So on the first claim which you consider emotional distress damages, that's where you would write the number that you think, and I just want you to be aware of that so that at the end there's not awarding multiple damages, and as a result, even though there may be multiple counts, it's the same harm, and since she alleges the same harm to most of her counts, I ask you just to keep that in mind.

1 And then you'll get the verdict form, and I'll ask 2 you, as you go through it, to at least consider where the 3 claim deals with intentional acts to consider whether or not 4 Nationstar acted in that way and, for actual damages, to write 5 the number that the evidence supports and that is just, but 6 for a couple of the claims, if you find -- you get to consider 7 punitive damages, and that's there at the bottom, and you get 8 a punitive damages instruction, and I'm going to blow up a 9 couple of things that I think of punitive damages that are 10 important.

11 The first is -- is that you have to base it on clear 12 and convincing evidence. It's not preponderance. It means 13 you have to be certain, reasonably certain that what you're 14 doing makes sense and is based on the evidence. If there's a 15 close call on intentional or it seems like, you know, 16 Nationstar did something but it's not clear and convincing 17 based on the evidence you've seen, then the law allows us that 18 protection because punitive damages is a different kind of 19 damage.

20 In addition, what you have to find is that we were 21 outrageous, not just that it was outrageous, but because of 22 our reckless indifference to her rights or evil motive, and 23 there you say it's to punish us and deter others. Now, let me 24 tell you; most punitive damages cases are because a company
25 comes in, they're doing a practice that they're making money

1 off of, and it's wrong, but they get caught, and the damages
2 are small for the plaintiff, and they say, "Oh, you know, 3 whatever. Who cares? There's just more profit."

4 This is not that case. I'm going to tell you three 5 reasons why. First, even they concede there's not evil people 6 or ill-willed motive behind what's going on here. And,
7 second, the practice that they've said and they've complained
8 about was not a profitable practice for us. It's not a 9 practice we want to do. Screw up someone's account, 10 wrongfully try and collect on it, push it to a foreclosure -- 11 that's not something we ever want to do again. That's why we 12 take these corrective measures. That's why we've taken this 13 so serious.

14 So the notion here of punitive damages are needed to 15 correct us from doing these things or to deter us, I would 16 suggest to you, is not really present in this case. Now, you 17 may think that because of what we did, in addition to actual 18 damages, if we acted with reckless disregard, which means 19 don't care about her, who could care less, that there might be 20 some measure of punishment that would further deal with it, 21 but I would urge you the numbers they talk about is very 22 disappointing because it's not fair and it's not warranted by 23 the evidence, and you saw the things that we did, that we're 24 doing absent of this case to be a better servicer, from our 25 annual report, and to help with customers and to increase

1 service. And large dollar amounts that serve, essentially, as 2 a windfall only penalize the company and the people and take 3 away money from making ourselves better. It doesn't serve the 4 purpose of which punitive damages are to serve under the law.

5 If you're worried we don't get it and somehow 6 Mr. Loll needs to take back a shocking verdict, trust me; we 7 got it. The only time these witnesses had to take the stand
8 and admit under oath we screwed up. And he's interviewed 9 people and talked to people, and he's told you he's told 10 senior management, and this hurts. And the embarrassment of 11 the trial. It's nothing like she went through. Trust me.
12 I'm not trying to compare it, but I'm suggesting to you that 13 punitive damages are designed when companies don't care and 14 don't get it, and I would ask you to take into consideration 15 that this was a different kind of business in this case who 16 said, "I got it. I understand. I'm going to fix it. I want 17 to make sure this doesn't happen again." And I would ask you 18 not to unduly punish this company for those reasons.

19 Finally, you'll see the other acts, the Fair Debt
20 Collection Practices Act, which is where we have to be a debt 21 collector, and it's a term defined by the law, which means at 22 the time we got Ms. May's loan she was in default. You may 23 recall we acquired her in bankruptcy while she was making her 24 payments, and so we ask you to consider whether or not there's 25 been evidence presented that she was in default when we got

1 her servicing rights. But as you go through this, this issue,
2 the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, you'll see it 3 basically bars debt collectors from doing things that are 4 improper -- lying to people when you call them, threatening 5 them, using deceptive things.

6 And what I'd like to really ask you to remember is -- 7 and I have one of the transcripts here from one of the calls 8 in April between Ms. May and Ms. Agyeman, and I know they 9 played them. I know you heard them. You never heard anyone 10 screaming or yelling or threatening. These weren't the boiler 11 room kind of collection calls you heard. In fact, I picked 12 this one because I thought it was a good example, where 13 Ms. May says, "Hey, I'm current."

14 And Ms. Agyeman says, "Okay. You're current now.
15 I'll notice it on the account. Thank you. And have a good 16 day."

17 Not "You're crazy. You're wrong. You better pay up, 18 or I'm going to kick you out."

19 "I'll note it now."

20 Where we went wrong was we didn't follow up on that.
21 There was no left hand knowing what the right hand is doing, 22 but we didn't go wrong with a boiler room outrageous 23 collection practice, and that's what this claim, I would 24 suggest to you, as you look at the language, is really 25 designed to do -- threaten things, use unfair, unconscionable

1 means.

2 But as you look at this action, you will see that it
3 also tells us and gives us a bona fide, good faith error 4 defense here. Collectors make mistakes, and the law says, in 5 Instruction 14, that if you find our violations were not 6 intentional and resulted from a bona fide error, then that's a 7 defense and we're not held liable, and that's important 8 because we're making a lot -- two and a half million loans, 9 and the law says mistakes are going to happen; just don't do
10 it intentionally. I would suggest to you not a single person 11 on any of the calls or any of the letters intentionally did 12 those knowing what they were doing was wrong. It was because 13 they thought the money was owed. It wasn't, but they thought 14 it was, and they presented no evidence that it wasn't.

15 By the way, this is not a case where our collectors 16 have to make too many phone calls or we don't spend enough 17 money. That wasn't the problem here. The problem was the 18 way, as you heard the particulars of this case, and the 19 circumstances of the way in which the computer loaded and her 20 notes and people not seeing them and not proper follow-up, but 21 it certainly wasn't with respect to the issues that they've 22 tried to paint in a kind of classic plaintiff style.

23 And so as you'll see, you remember hearing people
24 say, "Well, Ms. May, I'm showing you -- we're showing you 25 delinquent." They weren't making that up. They were looking

1 at the computer screens which showed it erroneously but showed 2 it. And there was no evidence that anyone who called her 3 thought the debt wasn't owed, and finally, the individuals who 4 did look at it tried to fix it, like Mr. Muller. So when 5 you're looking for the intentional conduct, there really just 6 isn't any evidence that we intentionally tried to do this, and 7 I would suggest that we made this in good faith as a bona fide 8 error, and that's why there's not the legal responsibility 9 under that claim.

10 Now, if you decide there is some responsibility in 11 this claim, you will see that the damages you may award 12 include the same kinds of things -- loss of time and 13 inconvenience, harm to credit, out-of-pocket costs, other 14 monetary losses, and so you will -- you will not try and award 15 it twice. You will consider that for any claim, and that's 16 why I highlight it for you.

17 The next claim is the violation of the Real Estate
18 Settlement Practices Act, and under what this is is if a 19 person, a borrower, sends a qualified written request, we're 20 required to respond to it. That has a legal definition, which 21 you were given, and it's technical, and that's the way the law
22 is, and that's the law we're all operating under, but a QWR, 23 as they're called, has to be sent to a specified address if 24 you tell them. That's why I showed -- this is a bad copy, but 25 the back of Ms. May's statement which says, "If you want to

1 send us a QWR, you must send it to this address" because 2 that's the way the law works, and there's a further 3 instruction you're given, which is if a borrower sends more
4 than one QWR but they're duplicative, you don't need to answer
5 every one. The law says once you've dealt with one, then 6 you're okay. Those two issues, I ask you to look at this, 7 whether or not it was sent to the correct address, and she 8 told us on the stand each QWR she sent thereafter was largely 9 the same complaint, so they're duplicative. Now, I'm not 10 trying to get away from responsibility to do our job, but it's 11 important that the law be applied in the particular context of 12 the facts in this case. So, really, the QWR that was sent was 13 after she got a lawyer, Mr. Healey, in August of 2013, which 14 was Plaintiff's Exhibit 40, and we responded on September 3rd, 15 2013, within the time frame, and gave her back our response.
16 As you know, the disconnect here is that we sent her and 17 thought she was asking us to verify the debt, and we sent her 18 the payment history, which is what we had done before when she 19 asked, and the payment history showed somewhere in there the 20 debit.

21 Now, don't get me wrong. No one needs to be an 22 accountant to figure it out, and so the point here is that we 23 made an effort to send the information we thought. In this 24 particular case, I want to be -- I want to be certain that we 25 should have done better because this should have never gone

1 out because this problem should have never happened, but the 2 company did make an effort to respond to this. They did 3 include the payment information, which is what we're looking 4 at and what others are looking at. As you know, we also sent 5 this payment information to her lawyer as well. So it wasn't 6 like we were trying to hide or we thought that we knew the 7 debt was wrongful and we were trying to mislead her. We gave 8 her the information. Even though this was erroneous, no one 9 at the company thought it was erroneous at the time that they 10 provided it to her.

11 If you get past this, you have the opportunity to 12 consider damages for that claim, and, again, it's the same 13 damages, and I ask you to really consider the facts in 14 evidence with these and to not consider awarding the same 15 damages over and over.

16 The next claim is the violation of the Fair Credit 17 Reporting Act, and this is where someone disputes their 18 credit, it comes to us, and we have to investigate. And those 19 are the elements, and you'll see them. The first part of it 20 is their claim is that what you need to show is that we 21 willfully failed to follow our duties, and you get an 22 instruction which says if we willfully failed to comply, she 23 must show that we knowingly and intentionally committed an act
24 in conscious disregards of her rights. So when the credit 25 dispute was submitted and the individual got it and simply

1 verified her debt, looking at our computer records, and sent 2 it back to the credit bureau and said, "Yeah, she's 3 delinquent," was that willful? Did that person know that she 4 really didn't owe that debt and that it was wrong? There's no 5 evidence to suggest that, that the credit reporting people who 6 looked at it and who verified it and sent the information back 7 knew --

8 THE COURT: Two minutes.

9 MR. TILLOTSON: Thank you, Your Honor.

10 -- knew what they were doing was wrong. So I would 11 suggest that there's not a willful violation, and that's why 12 we've quarreled with them on some of the claims because we 13 felt like what happened was wrong but was not willful, and if 14 you look at the damages, if you get there and think that what 15 we did was wrong, finally, you see the same thing. I do want 16 to emphasize that the Credit Reporting Act -- with that, we 17 have fixed that, and so the damages for her are for that 18 period of time.

19 Now, finally, no more slides, no more evidence, and 20 my last two minutes are to convey to you some sense of the 21 responsibility this company has taken for it because I think 22 the evidence has showed it. This was a very unusual trial for 23 me and for this Defendant because you normally have defendants 24 say, "No, the light was green" or "The light was red, and 25 you're not telling the truth." There was none of that. There

1 was none of that. There was an acknowledgment we screwed up 2 and a heartfelt apology. But that's how you started. An 3 effort to show you we fixed her problems. An effort to show
4 you we promised to fix her problems in the future. An effort
5 to show you we fixed the issues as best we can going forward 6 so that these kinds of mistakes don't happen in the future.
7 No one is perfect. No one is perfect. Me, Plaintiff, 8 Plaintiff's lawyers, anyone. And the law says, in certain 9 circumstances, that you can be held accountable for mistakes, 10 but it's different about punishing and being -- awarding large 11 damages for those. So as you go back to deliberate, I ask you 12 to consider and keep in mind the things the company has done 13 as evidence of our good faith and that we tried hard and we 14 tried to fix it, and I ask you when you look at it and get to 15 the issue of damages and, hopefully not, but if you do, 16 punitive damages, that you consider those facts and numbers 17 that are more in line with what the evidence shows and more in 18 line with how we acted.

19 THE COURT: Time.

20 MR. TILLOTSON: Thank you so much for your time.

21 Thank you, Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: Thank you. Mr. Humphreys, you have about 23 10 minutes left.

24 MR. HUMPHREYS: Today, Nationstar is serious. This 25 whole week, they have been serious. We have their attention.

1 They started taking this case seriously in about March or -- 2 excuse me -- May of this year when they brought in their 3 top-dog, internal, legal support guy who comes in to testify.
4 He runs a team with 10 other folks. He's certified to go all 5 over the country and defend these cases where Nationstar is 6 involved in litigation, and they do the explaining for the 7 company about what happened supposedly, and they brought in 8 their top-gun trial lawyer from Dallas, one of the best 9 lawyers from Dallas, who did a masterful job explaining away, 10 misdirecting from what actually happened here, and they want 11 to tell you that they're going to fix everything, and 12 that's -- this is a serious issue for you to decide because 13 you have to decide are these guys for real; are they seriously 14 going to fix everything, or are these just words, or is any of 15 this stuff enforceable here. Did anybody here see any written 16 agreements that they presented any policy changes, or did we 17 just hear words? "Oh, yeah, we've fixed all that stuff. It's 18 never going to happen again."

19 I'm sure.

20 This is the legal guy. What's he doing fixing their 21 problems? Where are the policy guys? Where are the procedure 22 guys? Where are the business unit reps, the directors? This 23 lawsuit is not anti-business. It's pro-business. There are 24 people out there in the mortgage world that are doing good 25 work. People need credit. They need homes. And these people

1 are giving the industry a bad name, and they're cutting
2 corners and they're saving money doing it, and they're hurting
3 good businesses that are having to pay the costs to do it 4 right, and that's why we want a punitive damages award.

5 And you have to decide for yourselves. Did these 6 guys really change their ways, or is this just bringing the 7 big dogs here to -- to manage you, to give you guys risk 8 management here, so they can escape and go on down the road
9 with big smiles on their faces because I guarantee you if you 10 return a verdict anywhere near what they're talking about, 11 they're going to be smiling all the way back to Dallas.

12 And how do we know if they've really changed their 13 ways or whether we're dealing with a broken culture because 14 this closing argument, I'm convinced, came directly from the 15 authority, the top of Nationstar. They're trying to tell you 16 that "We didn't intend to cause any harm here." They're 17 ignoring the law. Nationstar is ignoring the law.

18 Definition of agency: A corporation only acts 19 through its agents or employees, and any agent or employee may 20 bind the corporation by acts or statements. You know, we 21 talked about that with Mr. Loll here. This is a big outfit, 22 and you've got to have procedures so that people can 23 communicate within the organization between and among each 24 other, and people knew everything that they did wrong was done 25 at a time when the company knew they could only act through

1 their employees, and they don't have systems set up so that 2 people know what's going on there, and they've got people
3 running off and doing -- and they know they're doing horrible 4 things. Sometimes it's okay. Here, it wasn't, but they're 5 doing these things without knowing whether or not it's okay, 6 and they think that what's unintentional is if he didn't know,
7 even though the company knows. That is no way to do business, 8 and it's time to punish them.

9           And I want to talk to you about emotional distress.
10 I know a lot of you folks are technical people, and I admire
11 that. I don't have that skill. I'm not an accountant. I 12 can't fix things, and I'm not an engineer, and you have your 13 way of doing things, and I have my way of doing things. I 14 would suggest the way you all can think about emotional 15 distress here is this isn't a math problem or a formula. It's 16 not science. It's justice. This is a hall of justice, a 17 courtroom of justice. How do we do justice here, which is 18 what she's asking for? What is justice? Is it a formula?
19 It's a feeling. You saw feelings. Get in touch with 20 yourself. Get in the room and talk about it. And there's 21 going to be a variance there. Some of you are going to be up 22 there, and some of you are going to be lower, and you guys 23 need to agree, come together, unanimous, somewhere in the 24 middle, and decide what that number is, and we're not asking 25 you -- you cannot in fact -- in fact, I'm going to beg you to 1 really pay attention to 28 here. I told you about that.

2 There's no fixed standard or measure. Use your conscience.
3 Use your gut instincts. What is right here? You guys know
4 what it is. I can't tell you what it is. You figure it out.
5 That's your job. We've done our job. Our job is to put the 6 evidence to you. Your job is to figure out what to do with 7 it. Is this okay? If it isn't, let's do something about it.

8           Emotional distress -- all those elements are part of 9 it. This is the one I really want you to think about here.
10 27 is there's these five theories, two of them under the Fair 11 Credit Reporting Act, and there's four other ones. Don't 12 double down on damages, on emotional distress damages. This 13 lady had a lot of different things going on here. They did a 14 lot of different things to her. They threatened to take her 15 house. That's wrong. They tried to collect five payments
16 that weren't due for two years. That's wrongful debt
17 collection. That's under the Fair Debt Collection Practices 18 Act.

19           They're spying on her home. They're reporting about 20 her being in default in the newspaper. They're calling her at 21 work, and she's saying, "Quit calling me at work." That's an 22 invasion of her private affairs, and it's highly offensive to 23 anybody to be able to do things like that. That's different.
24 There's something. You figure out what's right there.

25           There's the Fair Credit Reporting Act, which is at

1 the very end of things. We heard the doctor say about 2 additive, that if you keep putting stress on somebody, it gets 3 worse and worse and multiplies and expands exponentially. It
4 blows up. That's why she left her work. Then she left her 5 work to get off the medicine. They forced her on 6 antidepressant medication, and she took seven months of her 7 life to get off those drugs because she didn't want to live 8 with antidepressants. And they -- she had a lot of other 9 stuff going on. We've all got full lives. She was 10 overwhelmed or just barely getting by, but they crushed her.
11 They broke this lady.

12 And so when you get to these verdict forms here, 13 you're going to fill each one of them out, and think about 14 doing it separately for the wrongful debt collection, the 15 invasion of privacy, the Fair Credit Reporting Act. At the 16 very end of this whole thing is when they double down on her 17 credit report. They, you know, made it doubly as bad as it 18 was, and their policy is "We're not going to do that again.
19 We never make people's credit worse." That's a wonderful 20 policy. How about you just investigate and tell the truth?
21 How about you look into the file? And if someone has bad 22 credit, we need to know that. That's good for everybody to 23 know. These businesses need to know so that they can extend 24 credit appropriately to others. That's what credit reporting 25 is for. It's a good thing, but they're just not doing their

1 job. They don't want to investigate. They don't want to be 2 reasonable. That's their job here is to be reasonable. It's 3 not rocket science.

4 RESPA. That's intent here. Are they good folks 5 here, or are they trying to get off on a loophole? "Well, we 6 told her to fax it to us, but on the back of the statement, in 7 the fine print, it says you've got to mail it to us, so don't 8 give her any money for that. Don't give her anything because 9 she didn't follow the fine print and didn't know what the law 10 was." That's good faith? They told her to fax this, and she 11 put them on square notice. Could any of us, anybody in this 12 courtroom, have done any more than this lady to try to get 13 them to stop before they got sued? And they didn't take this 14 thing seriously. They didn't engage in the risk management 15 business until you guys showed up.

16 And I thank you for your service. You're going to 17 get back to your lives. You've got to decide --

18 THE COURT: Two minutes.

19 MR. HUMPHREYS: You've got to decide amongst 20 yourselves whether or not you're going to let these guys off 21 the hook or whether you're going to send a message to change
22 their ways, and I'm going to ask you to send them a message, 23 whatever you think is right, whatever that number is, whatever 24 you think.

25 THE COURT: Okay. Ladies and gentlemen, that

11/20/2015

1 concludes the closing argument and the instruction portions of 2 the case. We're going to send you back to the jury room with 3 this package of instructions. All the previous admonitions 4 I've given to you about not discussing the case, not deciding 5 the case, obviously, that's all lifted now. This is exactly 6 the time to do that. So we're going to send you back to the 7 jury room with your instructions, and quite frankly, in about 8 the next half hour, Carol is going to come back with menus for 9 the -- what?

10 THE CLERK: Just give them to them now?

11 THE COURT: No. Why don't you wait.

12 In about half an hour, Carol is going to come back 13 and give you menus for the meals. We're going to send 14 something up for you because I -- unless you're done before 15 she brings the menus up, but that's what we'll be doing.
16 Okay. Good luck, folks, and we'll see you back in a bit.
17 Court's in recess.

18 (Court recessed from 11:19 a.m. until 2:09 p.m.)

19 (The following proceedings were held outside the hearing
20 and presence of the Jury.)

21 THE COURT: "Can we give amount and attorney's fees, 22 or do we have to say a solid dollar amount?"

23 My answer is, "You must be guided by the instructions 24 as provided," and I know the Defendants offered an instruction 25 and I didn't give it because I found no Eighth Circuit law to 1 provide such instruction, but whatever record you want to 2 make, you may.

3 MR. TILLOTSON: Yes, Your Honor. Yes, Your Honor.
4 We would request that the Jury be given the instruction that 5 we had requested earlier to provide clarity on this issue,
6 which I think we all saw coming, but law is the law. So -- 7 but we would request that the Court clarify for them so they 8 know exactly what it is that they're being asked to award.

9 THE COURT: I'm assuming the Plaintiffs do not want 10 me to give that instruction, correct?

11 MR. WALLACE: That's correct.

12 THE COURT: I'll read -- what I just read is what 13 I'll give them.

14 While we're all here, earlier on -- it's now 2:10 -- 15 the jurors asked for about, I would say, six or seven 16 exhibits, yeah, exhibits, and the note is in the court file
17 and will reflect exactly what they asked for. There was no
18 objection by either side to give those exhibits to the Jury, 19 and they've been provided those exhibits early on.

20 MR. WALLACE: I don't want to delay you, but I just 21 want to make sure that we get to attach our transcripts of 22 those depositions that were played and then make sure all the 23 exhibits are admitted at the right time.

24 THE COURT: Have we done that yet? Why don't we do 25 that now. Will you take this back to the Jury, and then come

1 back, and we'll do that.

2 (Court recessed from 2:10 p.m. until 2:12 p.m.)

3 (The following proceedings were held outside the hearing
4 and presence of the Jury.)

5 THE COURT: All right. We're going to go through the 6 exhibits, which it's my fault we haven't done this sooner, but 7 anyway, that's the way it goes. Tell me what -- let's just go 8 down the list of the exhibits you believe are admitted into 9 evidence.

10 MR. WALLACE: Sure. And I've confirmed this with the 11 other side. The Plaintiff's exhibits, it's numbers 2 through 12 27.

13 THE COURT: Wait a minute.

14 MR. WALLACE: 29 through 51.

15 THE COURT: Hold on. All right.

16 MR. WALLACE: 53, 54, 56, 57, 59, 61 through 65, 67
17 through 70, 72 and 73, 101, 105, 106, 107 through 116, 119, 18 135.

19 THE COURT: I have 120 offered also.

20 MR. WALLACE: Yes, that's right. That was by them.

21 THE COURT: Yeah.

22 MR. WALLACE: And we're fine with that.

23 THE COURT: Okay.

24 THE CLERK: That's one of the ones you told me to get 25 rid of.

1 MR. WALLACE: All right. We can move it off. Either
2 way. I mean, Amy, do you guys want 120? I mean we don't care 3 about it.

4 THE CLERK: They do.

5 MR. WALLACE: It's the trial mod, the offer, or 6 whatever, you know. You guys used it in your --

7 MS. BREIHAN: Didn't they ask for that?

8 MR. WALLACE: No, huh-uh, not that one.

9 THE COURT: Put it in.

10 MR. WALLACE: Okay. Yeah, 120 is in. And then let 11 me see. Where was I? Did I give you 135?

12 THE COURT: Nope.

13 MR. WALLACE: Okay. Did I give you 119?

14 THE COURT: Yes.

15 MR. WALLACE: 146 to 149, 153 to 155, 157, and 158, 16 161, 214, and 215. So that's 214, 215, and then 233.

17 THE COURT: That's it. All right. Any -- and 18 there's no objections by the Defendants on those; those will 19 all be admitted into evidence.

20 MR. BARNES: No objection, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: Thank you. How about the Defendant's 22 side?

23 MR. BARNES: Exhibit A, G, M as in Mike, W, FF, UU, 24 VV as in Victor, LLL.

25 THE COURT: I think one of these Defendants was named

11/20/2015

Volume 5

1 Victor, but go ahead. Sorry. LL.

2 MR. BARNES: Three Ls, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: Three Ls.

4 MR. BARNES: Three N, as in November. Three O. Five 5 B.

6 THE COURT: I'm sorry. You say five B as in boy?

7 MR. BARNES: B as in boy, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Got it.

9 MR. BARNES: Five E.

10 THE COURT: Got it.

11 MR. BARNES: Five F, five I, five J, and five K.

12 THE COURT: No objection to those?

13 MR. WALLACE: That's right.

14 THE COURT: They'll all be admitted into evidence.

15 MR. WALLACE: And then -- did I interrupt?

16 THE COURT: No. Go ahead.

17 MR. WALLACE: I want to attach to the record, or I'm 18 not sure. You know, in federal court in other places, it's 19 the way I've done it. I just want to make sure I do the right 20 thing.

21 THE COURT: Okay. You're talking about the 22 deposition transcripts?

23 MR. WALLACE: The depositions. And these are paper 24 copies of the depositions with -- the only substance of the 25 deposition that shows up is what was actually played to the 1 Jury. The rest of it has all been blacked out.

2 THE COURT: That works for me.

3 MR. WALLACE: And I have depositions of Andrea
4 Kimbuta; Doug Huss; Latonya Munson; Daniel -- Dr. Daniel
5 Maestas; Paul Muller; Mr. Loll, the corporate representative 6 of Nationstar; TaSharra Nance; and Caroline Agyeman.

7 MR. TILLOTSON: Does that include our portions?

8 MR. WALLACE: Yes.

9 MR. TILLOTSON: Okay. So --

10 MR. WALLACE: The only one that wouldn't would be 11 Dr. Maestas, which you played on your own, but other than 12 that, I think it is.

13 MR. TILLOTSON: Yes, we absolutely have no problem 14 with that. We'll submit the excerpt for Dr. Maestas, and then 15 I read in some excerpts from Mr. Huss that's already part of 16 the record, so I don't need to attach those.

17 THE COURT: Okay. What's up?

18 COURT REPORTER: When you were reading, that was not 19 part of the record.

20 MR. TILLOTSON: But I was doing it so well. We'll 21 attach it. We'll attach it. We'll attach it.

22 THE COURT: So attach it. That's it.

23 MR. TILLOTSON: We'll attach it. We'll get that, 24 Your Honor, and attach it.

25 THE CLERK: Okay. One more thing, gentlemen, and I

11/20/2015

77

1 hate to bring this up again, but we had that whole slew of 2 exhibits that the Plaintiffs are not submitting but were used, 3 and you don't mention the 170, all that stuff about the 4 corporate -- all the policies and all that kind of stuff.
5 They're on my list, but when this gentleman comes up and says, 6 "We want these exhibits admitted," he doesn't include any of 7 those.

8 MR. TILLOTSON: Okay. So I have them here collected.
9 Is that --

10 THE COURT: Well, do you want them in or out? I 11 don't care. Simple question. If you don't want them --

12 THE CLERK: That's all I want to know.

13 THE COURT: If you don't want them in, we don't have 14 to put them in.

15 MR. TILLOTSON: We want them in. We want them in.

16 THE CLERK: That's all I need to know.

17 THE COURT: So what exhibits are those? You know, 18 you started this with all the depositions, don't you?

19 THE CLERK: It's like 176 through 1 --

20 MR. TILLOTSON: It was actually further.

21 THE CLERK: 176 through 213 maybe.

22 MR. TILLOTSON: 176 -- Plaintiff's 176 --

23 THE COURT: All right.

24 MR. TILLOTSON: -- through Plaintiff's 213. You 25 don't need copies until they ask for them?

11/20/2015

78

1 THE CLERK: No, no. I just wanted to make sure you 2 want them in --

3 MR. TILLOTSON: I do.

4 THE CLERK: -- because I've got them already 5 admitted.

6 MR. TILLOTSON: Yes, I do. Thank you.

7 THE COURT: And, obviously, the Plaintiffs have no
8 objection to that, right?

9 MR. WALLACE: That's right.

10 THE COURT: Okay. Anything else? That cleans it up.
11 Done and done.

12 MR. WALLACE: Where do I leave these?

13 THE CLERK: Just leave them.

14 (Court recessed from 2:19 p.m. until 2:41 p.m.)

15 (The following proceedings were held outside the hearing
16 and presence of the Jury.)

17 THE COURT: Okay. I understand we're not fully 18 finished with the exhibits. Would you please -- let's clean 19 that up before the Jury comes back with the verdict. What 20 exhibits are we talking about, Carol?

21 MR. WALLACE: Exhibit 55, 58, 60, 64. Excuse me.
22 66. Not 64. 66, 74, and 158. So that's 55, 58, 60, 66, 74, 23 and 158.

24 MR. TILLOTSON: No objection, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: What was the last one? 74?

1 MR. WALLACE: 74 and then 158.

2 THE COURT: Okay. I'm sorry. Here. One fifty --

3 MR. WALLACE: -- eight.

4 THE COURT: -- eight. Got it. I already had that in 5 actually. Okay. So admitted.

6 All right. Do you want to get the Jury?

7 Counsel, I'm going to ask you guys to stick around.
8 I'm going to go back and talk to them, excuse them, but I want 9 you to stick around because I just -- because of all the -- I 10 expect confusion in the verdict. I'll be honest with you.
11 With that many verdict forms, I think it's probably -- we need 12 to talk about it before you guys get out of here.

13 MR. HUMPHREYS: Yes, sir.

14 (The following proceedings were held within the hearing
15 and presence of the Jury.)

16 THE COURT: I'm just -- I'm just guessing based on 17 the notes that were written, but, Ms. Rangel, are you the -- 18 are you the foreperson of the Jury?

19 JUROR #2: I was just the writing notes.

20 THE COURT: Who was the foreperson?

21 JUROR #5: I was.

22 THE COURT: Okay. I'm sorry. You're --

23 THE CLERK: Kyle Klohr.

24 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Klohr. Mr. Klohr, have you -- 25 I'm sitting here looking. This is self-explanatory, but we've

11/20/2015

80

1 been advised the Jury has reached a verdict in all of the six 2 claims. Have you done that?

3 JUROR #5: Five claims, yes, sir.

4 THE COURT: Five claims. I'm sorry. There was six.
5 I apologize. Okay. Thank you. And I had it in front of me, 6 but for the record, I needed to ask you. All right. Let me 7 look at this and . . .

8 Okay. I'm going to read these, each. This is the 9 verdict for invasion of privacy.

10 "On the claim of Plaintiff Jeannie May for invasion
11 of privacy against Defendant Nationstar Mortgage Servicing 12 LLC, the undersigned jurors find in favor of Plaintiff Jeannie 13 May. We, the undersigned, assess the damages of Jeannie May 14 as follows: Actual damages, $50,000. Punitive damages, 15 $400,000.

16 "On the claim of Plaintiff Jeannie May for the 17 violation of the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act and 18 against Defendant Nationstar Mortgage Services, we, the 19 undersigned jurors, find in favor of Defendant Nationstar 20 Mortgage LLC.

21 "On the claim of Plaintiff Jeannie May for violation
22 of the Real Estate Settlement Practices Act against Defendant
23 Nationstar Mortgage Services, we, the undersigned jurors, find 24 in favor of Defendant Nationstar Mortgage."

25 These are all signed by the foreperson.

1 "On the claim for -- of Plaintiff Jeannie May for 2 negligent violation of the Fair Credit Reporting Act and 3 against Nationstar Mortgage, we, the undersigned jurors, find 4 in favor of Plaintiff Jeannie May. We, the undersigned 5 jurors, assess damages of Plaintiff Jeannie May for $50,000.

6 "On the claim for -- of Plaintiff Jeannie May for 7 willful violation of the Fair Credit Reporting Act against 8 Defendant Nationstar Mortgage, we, the undersigned jurors, 9 find in favor of Defendant Nationstar Mortgage."

10 Is that the verdicts? I've read those correctly, 11 folks?

12 JUROR #5: Yes.

13 THE COURT: Okay. Would either side like the Jury 14 polled?

15 MR. HUMPHREYS: No, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: Defendant?

17 MR. TILLOTSON: No, Your Honor.

18 THE COURT: Okay. Ladies and gentlemen, that 19 completes the -- that completes your service as jurors in this 20 case. I am going to -- I want to thank you for your attention 21 for this long and very, I think, difficult trial. We 22 appreciate your efforts. I tell the jurors this each time I 23 finish a case, that, you know, my job every day is to make 24 decisions like you've just made, and, you know, people are in 25 front of me. Somebody loses. Somebody wins. And that's just

1 what I do, and I've done it for a long time, and that's part 2 of what I am these days. It's not that easy for you sometimes 3 who don't do this for a living. So what I always like to tell 4 folks like you is, number one, you shouldn't feel -- not that 5 you do, but you shouldn't feel bad about any decision you made 6 because, quite frankly, the parties had plenty of chance to 7 resolve this case over and over again, and they couldn't. I 8 sent them -- actually, I sent them to mediation to settle the 9 case two separate times, and they never were able to settle 10 the case. As recently as probably three months ago, I had 11 them come back and go to mediation to resolve it. They 12 couldn't settle the case. That means it was a hard case. The 13 easy cases settle and go away. The hard cases, we bring folks 14 like you in to tell us what the answer is. That's why you're 15 here. So we want to thank you for that. We appreciate your 16 service. You all were terrific jurors. You paid attention, 17 stayed awake and alert during very, at times, dry testimony, 18 quite frankly, about dollars and cents and exhibits. So we 19 appreciate that effort.

20 I am going to send you back to the jury room. Before 21 you leave, I'm going to come back and talk to you. I want to 22 thank you one more time back in the jury room and answer any 23 questions you might have because the lawyers are not permitted 24 to talk with you after the case has been submitted. Okay.
25 Thank you again. Thank you very much.

1 Court's in recess.

2 (The following proceedings were held outside the hearing
3 and presence of the Jury.)

4 THE COURT: Anybody want any sort of a record made on 5 this? Actually, this is a more simple answer than I thought
6 it was going to be or could have been. So there's no -- I 7 don't see any competing issues.

8 MR. TILLOTSON: No, Your Honor.

9 MR. HUMPHREYS: (Shakes head from side to side.)

10 THE COURT: Remember what I told you. I'll come back 11 and talk to you guys, but I do want to get back and let them 12 out of here, but tell -- any motions for a new trial, any 13 motions for attorneys' fees, any responses, you will get zero
14 extensions on because I just don't -- I want to get this done 15 before I leave the building.

16 MR. TILLOTSON: The practice in this district is we 17 are not allowed to talk to the jurors?

18 THE COURT: No, you are not allowed to talk to them.

19 MR. TILLOTSON: Thank you, Your Honor.

20 THE COURT: No, no. Okay. Thank you.

21 MR. TILLOTSON: Thank you, Your Honor.

22 (Court adjourned at 2:50 p.m.)
